The Back-end branch has a simple script python code which is a def of calculate product.